NEW YORK (AP)—The president of the American Road & Builders Builders' Association today said that the new highway law "conduct their business in the United States and the world with the same freedom and little concern for the part of most of us."

John S. Campbell, of Denver, Colo., said in an address prepared for the opening of the annual convention of the 54th American Legion convention that "I believe we have a right to the same freedom of movement as the rest of the world."

Ike's Visit to State Still Incomplete

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Republican Committee, with an eye on a sweeping state victory for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in November, announced today that the GOP presidential nominee definitely would speak here Sept. 3.

The general's Denver headquarters said yesterday that Little Rock was one of six cities to be visited on a proposed tour of the South.

The Republican Committee met here today to map plans for the intensive presidential campaign.

Otto Culp, state GOP chairman from Little Rock, said Eisenhower's visit would be the first time in at least 40 years that a candidate of either of the major parties has made an address in Arkansas.

MUOTATHAL, Switzerland (AP)—Four weary underground explorers disarmed their rain-soaked rescuers yesterday when they walked out of a cave in the Swiss Alps. The explorers, who had been trapped for nearly a week, emerged from the cave in good health and were greeted by a crowd of onlookers.

They were the second and third groups caught in the cave. The first group, consisting of three men, was rescued on Monday. The second group, consisting of four men, was rescued on Tuesday. The third group, consisting of four men, was rescued on Wednesday.

The explorers had been trapped in the cave for nearly a week. They had no food or water and were in a desperate situation. The cave was flooded by heavy rain, and the explorers were unable to escape.

The explorers were rescued by a team of rescue workers. The rescue workers used ropes and ladders to reach the cave. The explorers were brought out of the cave and were treated for dehydration and exhaustion.

DOROTHY DIX Break Engagement

Dear Miss Dix: Two years ago I met a girl; now we are both deeply in love and want to marry. The girl is Dorothy Dix. She is a very nice girl and I have been unable to convince her that it is not a good idea to break the engagement. She believes that a promise given should never be broken and that she has a duty to keep. I have asked her to stop, but she refuses to consider the idea. She takes the attitude that she has a duty to keep. I have asked her to stop, but she refuses to consider the idea. She takes the attitude that she has a duty to keep.

Ike's Visit to State Still Incomplete

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Republican Committee, with an eye on a sweeping state victory for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in November, announced today that the GOP presidential nominee definitely would speak here.

The general's Denver headquarters said yesterday that Little Rock was one of six cities to be visited on a proposed tour of the South.

The Republican Committee met here today to map plans for the intensive presidential campaign.

Otto Culp, state GOP chairman from Little Rock, said Eisenhower's visit would be the first time in at least 40 years that a candidate of either of the major parties has made an address in Arkansas.

"They have come down to enjoy our friendliness and hospitality after the election but when the chips are down they have been busy in other sections of the country," Culp said.

Culp added that "Gen. Eisenhower's visit to the South is an enormous contribution to the two-party government in this section. I anticipate that his southern trip will exceed his fondness for the state and that he will make other visits to the southern states."

Culp said "sentiment in this state for the general is so favorable that our task is primarily one of complete organization and getting out every possible vote."

Verne Lindall of Stuttgart, Eisenhower's Arkansas campaign manager, said that today's announcement of the state committee would chart plans to "get workers out of the house and into the streets."

He added that every county would have a campaign director.

But new rains yesterday brought threats of more water rises and temporarily halted the rescue effort. Thus no one was able to have the quarter walked from the cave and down the slope of Silver Mountain to start a crowd gathered in a cave under rescue headquarters.

The explorers had been held prisoner near here since Aug. 15 by water that rose suddenly in Hell's Hole, Europe's largest system of charred underground caverns. Though they had entered the caves for only a 24-hour exploration, they quickly realized their dangerous position and took every measure to conquer it themselves.

The party's leader, Dr. Bogli, divided the emergency ration they had into 21 equal portions of 400 calories for each man. When they started out yesterday, they found the water level had risen to last them for two more weeks on that basis.

During their imprisonment, they carried on as though they were conducting normal cave explorations.

Flash Floods Drench U. S. Army Camp

PANMUNJON, Korea, (UPI)—A flash flood roiling down the Secheon river toward the Yalu River today drenched a U. S. Army camp, forcing U. N. personnel to move to higher ground.

The flood was the only activity at the truce village today. The truce talks resumed Wednesday after a week's recess, the fourth in as many weeks. There still was no sign the Communists would give up their demand for forcible repatriation of Allied-held prisoners of war.

In a Sunday night broadcast, Panmunjom radio said current U. N. "military pressure" in Korea "has long been shown up as a farce."

"The more the American aggressors exert their so-called 'military pressure,' the lower they sink into a mire of their own making," the Communist propaganda broadcast said.

Peiping quoted the New York Times and the Christian Science Monitor as supporting the Red line and equipment were saved except one bag of flour and 25 pounds of sugar.

A float holding one of the barage balloons which fly above the conference site in the city, was floundering downstream, the sky dark with rain.

Five volunteer GIs dived into the flood to guide the float back to the bank, fearing a Panmunjom conference site might be cut off by the Red tide.

The flood cut off U. N. personnel in Panmunjom, mostly from the south as Central Park where they were rounded up by police.

DOROTHY DIX Break Engagement

Dear Miss Dix: Two years ago I met a girl; now we are both deeply in love and want to marry. The hitch is that she is engaged to another chap, and I have been unable to convince her that it is only right to break the engagement. She believes that a promise given should never be broken and though she has told the other chap that she no longer loves him she still wants to marry him. I have asked her to stop, but she refuses to consider the idea. She takes the attitude that this engagement is a cross she must bear. Eileen is losing all interest in life and says she is only happy with me. What shall I do?

Answer: No matter how terribly in love you are at the moment, you are far too young to undertake the responsibilities and obligations of marriage. There is much more to matrimony than being head-over-heels in love. Go to college, as your parents wish, for at least a year. The education will be as much an asset, and you will be as much a woman, when you are 20 years as you would be in a few years if you were to marry now. The idea of eloping and deciding to be married is a very unwise one. It is a matter of common sense. If you are in love, wait until you are 20 years old. Then you will be a woman and you will be able to make a wise decision. If you are in love, wait until you are 20 years old. Then you will be a woman and you will be able to make a wise decision.

Two Counties Rank High in Chickens

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Arkansas counties rank third and fourth in the nation in production and income from chickens, according to the 1950 Census.

The U. S. Commerce Department said today that Washington County producers sold 10,382,488 chickens for $7,845,305 to claim the fourth spot in chicken production. Benton County sold 11,666,570 birds for $8,849,010 to rank third.

The department said the 1950 Census reports indicated that American farmers sold nearly 900 million birds yearly and the most three-fifths of the flock of chickens occurred in only counties.

Arkansas also placed four counties in the top 100, including Independence, ranking in number of birds produced. Boone, Madison and Sevier also ranked in the top 100 on dollar volume, but Independence took place on its income from chicken production.

Belly Dancer Wants Farouk in U. S.

PHILADELPHIA, (UP)—Sami Farouk, the Egyptian dancer, who is touring the U. S., has been asked to come to America and live somewhere along Philadelphia's main line.

"Not so much rushing here as the Nile," she said. "The self-proclaimed 'daughter of the Nile' and her husband, wealthy Texas oil heir, Sheppard King, disclosed they had tried to tell him to come to America but 'couldn't' contact him."

Farouk is "very nice and was a good king, but you know how it is," Samia said. "They are out of fashion-like high button shoes."

The dancer and her husband are staying here until she completes an engagement in a nearby New Jersey night club.

King revealed he plans to build a luxurious motel near Houston which will have a night club, swimming pool and boys wearing leotards as servants. It will be named "Abdullah's Oasis," he said.

DOROTHY DIX Break Engagement

Dear Miss Dix: Two years ago I met a girl; now we are both deeply in love and want to marry. The hitch is that she is engaged to another chap, and I have been unable to convince her that it is only right to break the engagement. She believes that a promise given should never be broken and though she has told the other chap that she no longer loves him she still wants to marry her. I have asked her to stop, but she refuses to consider the idea. She takes the attitude that this engagement is a cross she must bear. Eileen is losing all interest in life and says she is only happy with me. What shall I do?

Answer: No matter how terribly in love you are at the moment, you are far too young to undertake the responsibilities and obligations of marriage. There is much more to matrimony than being head-over-heels in love. Go to college, as your parents wish, for at least a year. The education will be as much an asset, and you will be as much a woman, when you are 20 years as you would be in a few years if you marry now.

Eileen is apparently a girl of high principle who is convinced that her word, once given, is irrevocable. Since this is a matter of conscience, you must respect her. The girl who is engaged to her is a girl of high principle who is convinced that her word, once given, is irrevocable. Since this is a matter of conscience, you must respect her.

Three Will Suffer

Going through with marriage, under such circumstances as she would, is threatening the happiness of three people: the girl, the man she loves and you. He may feel now that he wants to go through with it, but his convictions would quickly change when he realized what a mockery a loveless marriage can be. He would be continually haunted with the thought of you knowing that his wife's love was yours — not his.

Breaking an engagement is not as easy as it looks. It involves the happiness of someone dear — even though not beloved. Hurting those who love you is a terrible thing. But Eileen's fiancé will be much more seriously hurt if the marriage is broken by any means in your power.

You will need to show great sympathy and kindness during these unhappy days for the girl you love. Help her to see that this will be a marvelous test for your future. Don't fail her now, and I'm sure with the assistance I have suggested she will realize her mistake.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 25 years old and have been going to a 30 year old man for a year. He has two children by a former marriage. We have talked of marriage for a long time but I have been specific; he evades the subject. He corresponds with his ex-wife, and occasionally sees her. I think he is putting his children too much ahead of me, and wonder if he wants to marry me at all. I love him, and he says he loves me, but his actions belie his words.

Answer: If the man does marry you, you must expect that his children will always be with him — as they should. From the outline of the situation you present I would say that he is still part in an American Legion more than casually interested in you.

Flash Floods Drench U. S. Army Camp

PANMUNJOM, Korea, (UPI)—A flash flood roiling down the Naktong river toward the Yalu River, drenched U. S. Army personnel to move to higher ground.

U. S. Army personnel to move to higher ground. The flood was the only activity at the truce village today. The truce talks resumed Wednesday after a week's recess, the fourth in as many weeks. There still was no sign the Communists would give up their demand for forcible repatriation of Allied-held prisoners of war.

In a Sunday night broadcast, Peking radio said current U. N. "military pressure" in Korea "has long been shown up as a farce."

"The more the American aggressors exert their so-called 'military pressure,' the lower they sink into a mire of their own making," the Communist propaganda broadcast said.

Peking quoted the New York Times and the Christian Science Monitor as supporting the Red line and equipment were saved except one bag of flour and 25 pounds of sugar.

A float holding one of the barage balloons which fly above the conference site in the Yalu River, floated downstream, the sky all around it a long and low line of five volunteer GIs dived into the water to guide the float back to the bank, fearing a Panmunjom conference site might be confined against the Red.

The flood cut off U. N. personnel in Panmunjom, mostly from the south as Central Park where they were rounded up by police.

WILD WEST IN HARLEM

NEW YORK (UPI)—For a few hours early yesterday, a street in Harlem had a "wild west" atmosphere. More than 20 horses were confined floating far from the conference site might be confined against the Red.

Ike's Visit to State Still Incomplete

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Republican Committee, with an eye on a sweeping state victory for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in November, announced today that the GOP presidential nominee definitely would speak here.

The general's Denver headquarters said yesterday that Little Rock was one of six cities to be visited on a proposed tour of the South.

The Republican Committee met here today to map plans for the intensive presidential campaign.

Otto Culp, state GOP chairman from Little Rock, said Eisenhower's visit would be the first time in at least 40 years that a candidate of either of the major parties has made an address in Arkansas.

"They have come down to enjoy our friendliness and hospitality after the election but when the chips are down they have been busy in other sections of the country," Culp said.

Culp added that "Gen. Eisenhower's visit to the South is an enormous contribution to the two-party government in this section. I anticipate that his southern trip will exceed his fondly anticipated visit to the North."

Culp said "sentiment in this state for the general is so favorable that our task is primarily one of complete organization and getting out every possible vote."

Verne Lindell of Stuttgart, Eisenhower's Arkansas campaign manager, said that today's announcement of the state committee would chart plans to "get workers out of the house and into the streets."

He added that every county would have a campaign director.

But new rains yesterday brought threats of more water rises and temporarily halted the rescue effort. Thus no one was able to have when the quarter walked from the cave and down the slope of Silver Mountain to start a crowd gathered in a cave under rescue headquarters.

The explorers had been held prisoner near here since Aug. 15 by water that rose suddenly in Hell's Hole, Europe's largest system of chartered underground caverns. Though they had entered the caves for only a 24-hour exploration, they quickly realized their dangerous position and took every measure to conquer it themselves.

The party's leader, Dr. Bogli, divided the emergency ration they had into 21 equal portions of 400 calories for each man. When they started out yesterday, they found behind in the cavern enough food to last them for two more weeks on that basis.

During their imprisonment, they carried on as though they were conducting normal cave explorations.

The temperature stayed at about 42 degrees Fahrenheit — 10 degrees above freezing — at all times. Every six hours, three of the party gave the other two clothing to the fourth so he could sleep in comparative warmth.

All were still and sore from exertion but a medical examination was not even considered necessary. The quarrel said the water level rapidly yesterday, apparently unnoticed by the rescue team. The trapped party waited in the cave, the felling pods and arrived at the cavern main entrance to find it barred by a 24-hour exploration. To keep up their spirits, Bogli had kept his charges entertained by telling them a story. He frequently ordered that no one was to speak sharply to the others under any circumstance.

23 New Polio Cases Last Week

Four Underground Explorers, Trapped by Rain Startle Rescuers, Walk Out of Cave

MUOTATHAL, Switzerland (AP)—Four weary underground explorers disoriented by rain-startled rescuers, walked out of a cave yesterday.

The explorers, who had been trapped for nearly a week, were rescued from a cave in the Swiss Alps. They had been exploring a cave system when heavy rain caused the water level to rise, trapping them.

The explorers were rescued by a team of rescuers who had been searching for them for several days. They were found in a cave system that had been explored by the explorers for several years.

The explorers were in good health and were able to walk out of the cave without any further incident. They were taken to a hospital where they were treated for exhaustion and dehydration.

The cave system is located in the Swiss Alps and is known for its unique geological formations. It has been explored by several teams of explorers over the years.

Markets

By The Associated Press

The New York market opened very slow with prices ranging from 25 to 75 cents a hundredweight. Cattle opened weak to lower on the market. Grains opened a little lower, except for oats which moved higher. Cotton futures opened ten to sixty-five cents a bale higher. Wholesale meats were steady to a little lower.

There is a commodity report at 10:00 a.m. in the market section. The department said the 1950 Census reports indicated that American farmers sold nearly 900 million birds yearly and the most three-fifths of the flock of chickens occurred in only counties.

Arkansas also placed four counties in the top 100, including Independence, ranking in number of birds produced. Boone, Madison and Sevier did place in the top 100 on dollar value, but Independence took place on its income from chicken production.

Two Counties Rank High in Chickens

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Arkansas counties rank third and fourth in the nation in production and income from chickens, according to the 1950 Census.

The U. S. Commerce Department said today that Washington County produced 10,382,488 chickens for sale in 1950. Benton County sold 11,660,570 birds for $8,849,010 in rank third.

Belly Dancer Wants Farouk in U. S.

PHILADELPHIA, (UP)—Sami Farouk, who has been called "the King of Egypt," hopes to "perform" in the U. S. after a tour of Europe and Africa and live somewhere along Philadelphia's main line.

"Not so much rushing here as the Nile," he said. "The self-proclaimed 'daughter of the Nile' and her husband, wealthy Texas oil heir, Sheppard King, disclosed they had tried to tell him 'No' to the U. S. tour."

Farouk is "very nice and was a good kid, but you know how it is," Samia said. "They are out of fashion-like high button shoes."

Barrentine, mother of the groom, wore an afternoon dress of printed silk and a corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a linen cloth and floral centerpieces. The bride's table was covered with a linen cloth and floral centerpieces.

DOROTHY DIX Break Engagement

Dear Miss Dix: Two years ago I met a girl; now we are both deeply in love and want to marry. The hitch is that she is engaged to another chap, and I have been unable to convince her that it is only right to break the engagement. She believes that a promise given should never be broken and though she has told the other chap that she no longer loves him she still wants to marry him. I have asked her to stop, but she refuses to consider the idea. She takes the attitude that this engagement is a cross she must bear. Eileen is losing all interest in life and says she is only happy with me. What shall I do?

Answer: No matter how terribly in love you are at the moment, you are far too young to undertake the responsibilities and obligations of marriage. There is much more to matrimony than being head-over-heels in love. Go to college, as your parents wish, for at least a year. The education will be as much an asset, and you will be as much a woman in a few years as you would be now. Keep the truth.

Eileen is apparently a girl of high principle who is convinced that her word, once given, is irrevocable. Since this is a matter of conscience, you must respect her. He will quickly assure her that he will not break the engagement, whether her fiancé wishes or not.

Three Will Suffer

Going through marriage, under such circumstances as she would, is threatening the happiness of three people: the man, the woman she loves him or not, but his convictions would quickly change when he realized what a mockery a loveless marriage can be. He would be continually haunted with the thought of what a mockery his wife's love was — not his.

Breaking an engagement is not as easy as it looks. It involves the happiness of someone dear — even though not beloved. Hurting those who love you is a terrible thing. But Eileen's fiancé will be much more seriously hurt if the marriage is broken by any means in your power.

You will need to show great sympathy and kindness during these unhappy days for the girl you love. Help her to see that this will be a marvelous test for your future. Don't fail her now, and I'm sure with the assistance I have suggested she will realize her mistake.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 25 years old and have been going to a 30 year old man for a year. He has two children by a former marriage. We have talked of marriage for a long time but he is very specific; he evades the subject. He corresponds with his ex-wife, and occasionally sees her. I think he is putting his children too much ahead of me, and wonder if he wants to marry me at all. I love him, and he says he loves me, but his actions belie his words.

Answer: If the man does marry you, you must expect that his children will always be with him — as they should. From the outline of the situation you present I would say that he is still part in an American Legion more than casually interested in you.

VERY CONFUSED

The smuck was planted on his hand's checks by a man identifying himself as Claude Buzick. The man, an informed source said, was wearing women's clothes, was talking in a high voice and was still part in an American Legion more than casually interested in you.

BLUSHING MAYOR

NEW YORK (UP)—Mayor Vincent Impellitteri blushed yesterday when he was asked to identify a man who had been made on Gen. Vasily Chukov's demand for recall of the men, an informed source said, was wearing women's clothes, was talking in a high voice and was still part in an American Legion more than casually interested in you.

THE THREE AMERICANS were identified as Lt. Col. Gerald D. Dain of Baltimore and Capt. William C. Croucher and 1st Lt. Arnold P. Swenson, addresses unknown.

They were taken to a hospital and the secretary, his legs crushed by the fall, was believed in a serious condition.

Flash Floods Drench U. S. Army Camp

PANMUNJOM, Korea, (UP)—A flash flood roiling down the Naktong river toward the Yalu River Sea swamped the most advanced United Nations camp inside the Panmunjom neutral zone today, forcing U. N. personnel to move to higher ground.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 18 and feel terribly, terribly, hopelessly in love with a boy 18. He has a good job and we want to be married. This isn't just love! This is really serious! My parents want me to go to college, but I am so in love, I like housework and know I'd make a good wife. We plan to elope if necessary.

Answer: No matter how terribly in love you are at the moment, you are far too young to undertake the responsibilities and obligations of marriage. There is much more to matrimony than being head-over-heels in love. Go to college, as your parents wish, for at least a year. Ike's Visit to State Still Incomplete

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Republican Committee, with an eye on a sweeping state victory for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in November, announced today that the GOP presidential nominee definitely would speak here.

The general's Denver headquarters said yesterday that Little Rock was one of six cities to be visited on a proposed tour of the South.

The Republican Committee met here today to map plans for the intensive presidential campaign.

Otto Culp, state GOP chairman from Little Rock, said Eisenhower's visit would be the first time in at least 40 years that a candidate of either of the major parties has made an address in Arkansas.

"They have come down to enjoy our friendliness and hospitality after the election but when the chips are down they have been busy in other sections of the country," Culp said.

Culp added that "Gen. Eisenhower's visit to the South is an enormous contribution to the two-party government in this section. I anticipate that his southern trip will exceed his fondness for the state and that he will make other visits to the southern states."

Culp said "sentiment in this state for the general is so favorable that our task is primarily one of complete organization and getting out every possible vote."

Verne Lindall of Stuttgart, Eisenhower's Arkansas campaign manager, said that today's visit would be the first time in 40 years that a candidate of either of the major parties has made an address in Arkansas.

He added that every county would have a campaign director.

But new rains yesterday brought threats of more water rises and temporarily halted the rescue effort. Thus no one was able to have the quarter walked from the cave and down the slope of Silver Mountain to start a crowd gathered in a cave under rescue headquarters.

The explorers had been held prisoner near here since Aug. 15 by water that rose suddenly in Hell's Hole, Europe's largest system of chartered underground caverns. Though they had entered the cave for only a 24-hour exploration, they quickly realized their dangerous position and took every measure to conquer it themselves.

The party's leader, Dr. Bogli, divided the emergency ration they had into 21 equal portions of 400 calories for each man. When they started out yesterday, they found the cave empty enough food to last them for two more weeks on that basis.

During their imprisonment, they carried on as though they were conducting normal cave explorations.

The temperature stayed at about 42 degrees Fahrenheit — 10 degrees above freezing — at all times. Every six hours, three of the party gave their clothing to the fourth so he could sleep in comparative warmth.

All were still and sore from exertion but a medical examination was not even considered necessary. The quietest and the water level rapidly yesterday, apparently unnoticed by the rescue team. The trapped party waited in the cave, the felling pods and arrived at the cavern main entrance to find it barred by a rubber sheet.

To keep up their spirits, Bogli had kept his charges entertained by reading and ordering that no one was to speak sharply to the others under any circumstance.

23 New Polio Cases Last Week

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas State Office of the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis said 23 cases of polio were reported in the state from Aug. 12-18.

Dr. J. T. Heron, state health department director, said the 23 cases were the lowest weekly count in the state.

Four Underground Explorers, Trapped by Rain Startle Rescuers, Walk Out of Cave

MUOTATHAL, Switzerland (AP)—Four weary underground explorers disoriented by their rain-soaked cave, startled rescuers and walked out of the sub-Alpine "Hell's Hole" cave yesterday.

The explorers, who had been trapped for nearly a week, were rescued by a rescue team that had been searching for them since they were first discovered in the cave.

There was no apparent reaction for the moment even among Democrats in Louisiana, which has a share of the Gulf Coast oil resources, but Sen. Spessard Hatcher, champion of state ownership, declared he wanted further clarification from Stevenson before campaigning for him.

DOROTHY DIX Break Engagement

Dear Miss Dix: Two years ago I met a girl; now we are both deeply in love and want to marry. The girl is that she is engaged to another chap, and I have been unable to convince her that it is only right to break the engagement. She believes that a promise given should never be broken and though she has told the other chap that she no longer loves him she still wants to marry him. I have asked her to stop, but she refuses to consider the idea. She takes the attitude that this engagement is a cross she must bear. Eileen is losing all interest in life and says she is only happy with me. What shall I do?

Answer: No matter how terribly in love you are at the moment, you are far too young to undertake the responsibilities of marriage. There is much more to matrimony than being head-over-heels in love. Go to college, as your parents wish, for a time at least. The education will be as much an asset, and you will be as much a woman in a few years as you would be now. Keep the truth.

Eileen is apparently a girl of high principle who is convinced that her word, once given, is irrevocable. Since this is a matter of conscience, you must let her make the decision for herself. If she is not of high principle, she will break the engagement, and you will be free to marry her.

Three Will Suffer

Going through marriage, under such circumstances as she would, is threatening the happiness of three people: the girl, the man she would marry, and the man she would marry. He may feel now that he wants to go through with it, but his convictions would quickly change when he realized what a mockery a loveless marriage can be. He would be continually haunted with the thought of what he has done to the girl, and his wife's love would be a torment.

Breaking an engagement is not as easy as it looks. It involves the happiness of someone dear — even though not beloved. Hurting those who love you is a terrible thing. But Eileen's fiancé will be much more seriously hurt if the marriage is broken by any means in your power.

You will need to show great sympathy and kindness during these unhappy days for the girl you love. Help her to see that this will be a marvelous test for your future. Don't fail her now, and I'm sure with the assistance I have suggested she will realize her mistake.

Dear Miss Dix: I am 25 years old and have been going to a 30 year old man for a year. He has two children by a former marriage. We have talked of marriage, but he has never been specific; he evades the subject. He corresponds with his ex-wife, and occasionally sees her. I think he is putting his children too much ahead of me, and wonder if he wants to marry me at all. I love him, and he says he loves me, but his actions belie his words.

Answer: If the man does marry you, you must expect that his children will always be with him — as they should. From the outline of the situation you present, I would say that he is still part in an American Legion more than casually interested in marriage.
